RAISED OVER $300

The 4th Maine Fund Reaches Goal—Marker Dedication In Near Future

A total of $307 has been raised to date toward the erection of a marker in memory of the 4th Maine Regiment to be set on the old campground on Middle street hill. It is thought that this sum will defray the expenses. The marker, a granite block weighing over six tons, is already on the lot and the bronze tablet, properly inscribed, is in process of manufacture. Mrs. Eliza Plummer, general chairman, has these details in hand and will announce in the near future the date for dedication.

Final contributions which have been received during the summer and not as yet acknowledged were: Grace A. Flood $5.00, Ada L. Walker 5.00, Mrs. Nellie Gamage 2.00, Mrs. C. Alice Weymouth 2.00, H. G. York (Seattle, Wash.) 25.00. Any funds in excess of the costs will be used in grading and maintenance. Those desiring to contribute may send their money either direct to Mrs. Plummer at 57 Pleasant street, Rockland, or to John M. Richardson at The Courier-Gazette office, who acted as treasurer.

"SARCASM A SLIP"

Needham Man Pays His Respects To Mr. Dentinger's Communication

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—Having read Mr. Antonson's article in your paper and feeling that it was merely a rather humorous attempt to explain to the people of the very attractive town of Rockland how at least one visitor felt about a noise that must be very trying to those in the hospital, as well as many residents, and one that could doubtless be lessened with equal effectiveness, I read with surprise W. E. Dentinger's rather vituperative attack upon the writer and residents of Massachusetts. I wonder just what the State as well as the incident of the lady in Camden Hills has to do with the question of the diaphone and if it is customary for all citizens of California to so bitterly resent criticism. Since Mr. Dentinger feels that sarcasm is a slip from the behaviour of a well bred person, it appears to me that he is either very inconsistent, or has taken a long slide in that direction himself. It seems rather small to take this way of airing a grievance against the state of Massachusetts but I am forced to conclude that this is what prompted the gentleman from California, rather than a real love for the diaphone. I should not say this as it really has nothing to do with the matter but I could not help noticing that the customary "boost" for California was lacking. J. C. Sargent. Needham, Mass., Aug. 28.

WET IN FINLAND

Peter Nelson Gives Scandinavian Countries the Once Over—Weather Also Wet

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—I arrived here last night from a trip through the Scandinavian countries. I have been through Sweden, Finland, Norway and Denmark, and there is no drunkenness compared with what there was some years ago, and I have been in cafes, hotels and restaurants where liquor is served. The four countries have reduced the drunkenness to a minimum. Sweden has what is known as the Blat system which is the best of all because it keeps hard liquor. Here wine and beer have become the chief drink where hard was 10 years ago. Norway has no control of the amount purchased by the individual, but restricts the amount manufactured and sold to stores owned by the government to concessionaires. Denmark has another system eliminating the sale of hard drink—that of taxing alcohol at $21 a gallon. The Danes have also enacted a drastic law against bootleggers which has almost eliminated hard liquor in the country. Alcohol sold there is only 10 percent of what it was before the control system.

Finland on the other hand is just the opposite, there is a situation similar to that in the U.S.A. Bootlegging is flourishing, you can go into a hotel or restaurant in Helsinki, the capital, and Scotch brandy and more will be served to you at 75 cents a drink. The prohibition law is openly violated, with the countries south of the Baltic running great quantities of alcohol into the country. Drunkenness is more common among the poor than the rich. There was so much of it in fact, that the law had to be changed to arrest only those persons who were dead drunk. Even the officials there admit the law is unenforceable and must be changed at the first opportunity.

In all the countries I saw no drunkenness except in Finland. In Sweden a person is allowed five standard size bottles of hard liquor per month and one can draw it from a state-controlled wine shop at one time, but much of the drinking is done in hotels and restaurants where you can get all the wine and beer you want. Hard liquor is sold only with meals and this is allotted by a special machine. All people are satisfied. Most of the people, and that applies to Norway and Denmark, have almost forgotten hard liquor. Beer and light wine are always kept before them, and I want to say that both are excellent.

There has been an awful rain the last five weeks and it is raining hard here today—all one can do is to sit in the hotel and look out through the window. The farmers are hard hit all over northern Europe. Peter Nelson

PREACHED LOYALTY

Forty Club Heard Cong. Partridge-President Stratton Assumes Office

Congressman Donald B. Partridge of Norway gave the Forty Club yesterday a ringing inspirational address on the present day wave of intolerance and faltering loyalty to national institutions. He stressed the menace to the country and its government presented by the 250 societies of "isms" of communistic tendencies.

Congressman Donald B. Partridge Who Yesterday Addressed the Forty Club

During the last ten years I have served the State of Maine in various capacities and like many others have been alarmed at the constantly rising cost of state government. It is plain that our expenditures are growing faster than the rate at which the wealth of the State is increasing. Such a situation must be remedied. When I assumed office as Governor in January, 1928, it was apparent to me that my service to the people of the State would be of little value unless some effort were made to lighten the burden of taxation. In order that I might be in a position to urge economy upon the other officials of the State I studied carefully the expenses of the Executive Department for which a governor is solely responsible. Believing that "true economy begins at home" I began there. During my first year those expenses were reduced $14,000, during the second year $15,000, making a total savings for the two years of $29,000.

A NOTABLE PAGEANT

Conducted By East Union Students of Rural Educational School

A vivid and colorful pageant was put on by 14 smart and promising youngsters, directed and trained by that skillful director of religious education, Miss Margaret McKnight, at Pioneer Grange hall recently in such a fashion as to be a credit to any community. It showed not only that these children are a decided asset to East Union but that the Knox County Association for Rural Religious Education, with Dr. H. W. Twissie as president, Joseph W. Robinson as treasurer, J. L. Corson as superintendent, Miss McKnight as director with Mrs. Beatrice Brown as capable assistant, Miss Carol Gardner as guest pianist and Rev. Herman Winchenbaugh as publicity chairman, is functioning with efficiency.

Miss McKnight opened the festivities with a prayer. The pageant was a display of handicraft by the children of the East Union Bible School, in session for seven weeks. In fact the children themselves conducted the devotions, songs, pageantry very nicely. Rev. Mr. Corson closing with the benediction.

"They Who Weave" is a pageant in which ideas of parents are portrayed as reflected in lives of their descendants so that each contributes to "the garment of character" of all they meet in life.

Hope Brown, as record keeper; Shirley Morton, as Rachel; Dorothy Morton, as Mary; Martha Gould, as Crusading Mother; Alfred Young, as Pioneer Mother; Geraldine Gould, as modern mother, were all dressed in appropriate costumes. These constituted the impressive cast of characters with the following students of the Bible school as holders of colored threads: Marjorie Davis, David Morton, William Kealey, Alice Laird, Harold Laird, Barbara Morton, Hazel Young, Marion Young.

Members who were present were Hope Brown, Martha Gould, William Kealey, Dorothy Morton, Shirley Morton, Alfreda Young, Barbara Morton, Marion and Hazel Young. Three more missed only one session. The pleasant and profitable entertainment closed with personal examination of the pupils' handicraft displayed around walls and tables of the cheery Grange hall by interested visitors from Rockland, Glenview and other towns, who constituted an audience of 50 or more, who complimented Miss McKnight, Mrs. Brown, and the students.

WHAT IS THE CODE BILL?

Gov. Gardiner Offers Simple Explanation of Measure On Which We Vote Soon

What is this code bill? Many persons are now asking that question. The story is here told as briefly as possible in a message from Gov. Gardiner: After the war we continued to drift away from the idea of true economy. Our nation as a whole developed the habit of careless spending and the old ideas concerning thrift and careful administration of financial affairs became a bit "old fashioned." There were many demands for the government to spend money, and prosperous times made us willing to increase expenditures by existing agencies as well as to go into new fields.

After the war we continued to drift away from the idea of true economy. Our nation as a whole developed the habit of careless spending and the old ideas concerning thrift and careful administration of financial affairs became a bit "old fashioned." There were many demands for the government to spend money, and prosperous times made us willing to increase expenditures by existing agencies as well as to go into new fields.

The purpose of the first of these two departments is financial economy and control. Bookkeeping now scattered through all the state agencies will be uniformly carried on in the accounts and control division, and the auditor's department will carry on a continuous post-audit of all transactions of the state government, thus acting as a check on executives and seeing that legislative provisions are complied with. The other two divisions of the department are concerned with purchasing and taxation. There is a better system of budgeting and the approval in advance by the Governor and Council of work programs of the various departments in accordance with legislative appropriations. Through the provisions of the Act it is conservatively estimated that a quarter of a million dollars may be saved annually.

The bill creates the Department of Health and Welfare with three separate bureaus of Health, Social Welfare and Institutional Service. The department will have at its head a single commissioner whose first duty is to act as the coordinating agent in bringing about closer cooperation in the work of the various state agencies under the three bureaus mentioned. His accompanying duty is to act as the direct agent of the Governor and Council and Legislature in keeping them informed as to actual conditions and needs prevailing throughout the institutions and agencies.

The Act itself is easy to understand although it is the result of much labor and much study. Any question as to what the Act covers can be best answered by reading the bill. It is designed to check the increase of money demanded from the home owners of Maine and yet to permit the carrying on of effective work for the common welfare of all our people. In so far as I have had a part in its formulation it represents the best effort I could contribute after three terms of service in the Legislature and two years of service as chief executive. No claim is made that the Act is perfect but I have yet to hear of anyone who has any definite suggestion of a better measure. If there were a better way of saving the taxpayers of the State $250,000 each year, I would be most happy to learn of it. I believe with others who are well acquainted with the Act, including many members of your organization, that this is a reasonable move for simplification of government, with the fiscal control and cooperation which are so necessary for economy.

A NORTH HAVEN TRAGEDY

Christiansen Fatally Injured When Auto Sideswiped Telephone Pole—Joseph Belmore, Jr., Injured

State Patrolman George I. Shaw and Medical Examiner H. W. Frohock were called late Sunday night to North Haven where had occurred an automobile accident fatal to one of the car's occupants and injuring the others.

The victim was Thorleif Christiansen, 20, who was employed on the Weld yacht Corona. He leaves parents in Norway, but it is understood that he had no relatives in this country.

The automobile involved in the accident was a model A Ford coupe, owned by Joseph Belmore, Jr., of North Haven, and being driven at the time by Fred Von Ahnen, a sailor on the Corona. With him on the driver's seat were Blanche and Beulah, daughters of Hanson T. Crockett.

According to the story they were returning from church, with young Belmore on the left running board and Christiansen on the right running board. The time was 9:30. About a mile from the village the driver suddenly became blinded by the glare of an approaching car's headlights. Von Ahnen turned sharply to the right to avoid a possible collision, but swung too far, and sideswiped a telephone pole with such force that the latter was broken. The car went a considerable distance after the impact and is said to have turned over at least once, the vehicle being completely ruined.

Christiansen received the main force of the collision, and suffered a broken neck, broken ribs and broken legs. He lived about 25 minutes. Belmore's left leg was broken. He was taken to Knox Hospital.

Von Ahnen escaped injuries other than a cut on the nose, and the girls had no serious injuries, though suffering from a nerve shock.

The identity of the car whose headlights are said to have blinded Von Ahnen, and which is said to have been traveling at very high speed, had not been learned at last accounts. Patrolman Shaw and Dr. Frohock made a very thorough study of the situation, their work carrying them well into the night.

Dr. Horace Pettie and Dr. H. Edginton, members of the summer colony; and Dr. Daniel Woodman, the resident physician, aided the injured.

Von Ahnen was arraigned in Rockland Municipal Court yesterday forenoon and pleaded guilty to driving without a license. In the afternoon he was arraigned on the charge of manslaughter and entered a plea of not guilty.

IN JUDGE BUTLER'S COURT

Numerous Cases Have Been On Trial With Booze At Bottom of Most of Them

Charles J. Roberson alias Harold Marvin, alias James Langtry, whose residence is nowhere in particular, and who was born in Toledo, Ohio, was before Judge Walter H. Butler Saturday forenoon on a charge of having cashed an alleged forged check at Maynard Brennan's filling station.

The State and local police who handled the case found that Roberson was driving an automobile said to have been stolen in Manchester, N. H., the license plate of which had been made over. Included in the triple-titled respondent's possession were a pawn ticket, showing that he had hocked a Smith & Wesson revolver; a liberal supply of cartridges; a consignment of Prince Albert tobacco which is believed to have been part of the loot in the Holden Post-office robbery; and three checks which bore the apparent signature of Dr. E. B. Sanger of Bangor.

Judge Butler continued the case until afternoon fixing the bail at $2000. Meantime Sheriff John K. Farrar arrived from Penobscot County and presented evidence against the prisoner of such a convincing nature that Judge Butler promptly surrendered Roberson to the Penobscot County official.

Before he was released, however, a trustee process was served by Deputy Sheriff Ludwick seeking the return of the money which Brennan had given to the prisoner as change for the alleged bogus check.

The local complaints were dismissed with the departure of the prisoner.

Arthur L. Fish, alias Lewis A. Fish, of Union, was before Judge Butler on two counts Saturday. One charged him with driving a motor car not properly licensed; and the other with uttering checks without funds to support them. He was given an alternative sentence of 10 and costs (taxed at $7.32) or 30 days in jail, on the first case, and 60 days in jail on the second case, the two sentences to be served consecutively. Fish said that rum was at the bottom of his troubles.

Rum was also at the bottom of the sold land in Washington to Ellis L. Maddocks and Emma L. Maddocks of Union.
Cora E. Farrand of Thomaston sold land and buildings in Thomaston to Mrs. Dorothy W. Blair of Thomaston.
Everett C. Dyer of Hope sold land and buildings in Hope to Augusta P. Dyer of Camden.

CHILDREN'S CLOTHING

The appeal for children's clothing in this paper a week ago has brought slow response. The Educational Club is fitting out one girl. Miss Ames of Elm street has fitted out another. The American Legion Auxiliary donated $5 toward helping some child. Clothing is needed very, very badly and should be sent to the City Building or it will be called for gladly. It is time to commence knitting mittens for the kiddies. One young lady more than 90 years of age has knitted the first two pairs out of some used yarn given to the City Matron. There will be a greater call for mittens this winter than last, because the need will be greater. Start knitting.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE

Little Orphan Annie's come to our house to stay
An' wash the cups and saucers up, an' brush the crumbs away.
An' shoo the chickens off the porch, an' dust the hearth, an' sweep.
An' make the fire, an' bake the bread, an' earn her board-an'-keep.
An' all us other children, when the supper things is done,
We set around the kitchen fire an' has the mostest fun.
A-list'nin' to the witch tales 'at Annie tell about,
An' the gobbie-uns 'il git you
If you Don't Watch!

One't they was a little boy wouldn't say his pray
An' when he went to bed 'at night, away up stairs,
His mother he heard him holler, an' his daddy heerd him bawl.
An' when they turn't the kivers down, he wasn't there at all.
An' they seeked him in the rafter-room, an' cubby-hole, an' press,
An' seeked him up an' down the Blackley-flue, an' ever'where, I guess,
But all they ever found was thist his pants an' roundabout!
An' the gobbie-uns 'il git you
If you Don't Watch!

An' one time a little girl 'ud allus laugh an' grin,
An' make fun of ever' one an' all her blood-an'-kin,
An' one't when she was company, an' ole folks was there,
She mocked 'em an' shocked 'em, an' said she didn't care!
An' thist as she kicked her heels, an' turn't to run an' hide,
They was two great big Black Things a-standin' by her side,
An' they snatched her through the ceiling 'fore she know'd what she's about!
An' the gobbie-uns 'il git you
If you Don't Watch!

An' little Orphan Annie says, when the blaze is blue,
An' the lampwick sputters, an' the wind goes wint-o-o!
An' you hear the crickets quit, an' the moon is gray,
An' the lightnin'-bugs in dew is all squenched away—
You better mind yer parents, and yer teachers, fond an' dear,
An' cherish them 'at loves you, an' dry the orphan's tear,
An' help the pore an' needy ones 'at clusters all about,
Er the gobbie-uns 'il git you
If you Don't Watch!

PLEDGING THE FLAG

There has just died at his home in Tampa, Fla., Francis M. Bellamy, the most quoted man in America. This designation arises out of the fact that he was author of that striking promise of allegiance to the flag, which daily receives recitation by thousands of school children and patriotic societies. It was in 1892 that Bellamy, then on the staff of the Youth's Companion, wrote the words:

"I Pledge Allegiance to the Flag of the United States and to the Republic for Which It Stands, One Nation, Indivisible, With Liberty and Justice For All."

It is our impression that the pledge was written in connection with the work undertaken by the Youth's Companion to ally the schools of the country with the Chicago World Fair, a gigantic task, which failing in the hands of the committee had been unloaded upon the Boston weekly. Here also the matter languished, until placed in charge of a member of the paper's advertising staff, and it became one of the outstanding successes of the great exhibition. It was through the initiative and direction of a former Rockland boy, Harold Roberts, now of New York and with a summer place at Owl's Head, that this success was achieved.

"ABROAD WITH THE JIMMIES"

From France, under date of Aug. 29, we are treated to this picture by the associated press:

Cannes paid homage to New York's dapper Mayor James J. Walker yesterday. Several thousand enthusiastic French citizens cheered after he deposited a wreath on the Soldiers' Memorial.

"With French champagne, I toast the greatest wet in America," said Deputy Mayor Fland, after a solemn ceremony in City Hall gave place to a more informal meeting in the local mayor's office.

Seizing a champagne glass, Mayor Walker responded:

"If any proof is needed I'll furnish it forthwith." Thereupon he put the glass to his lips.

Then while the band played the "Star Spangled Banner" New York's mayor marched in procession and laid down a large wreath at the monument to the Unknown Soldier. "The greatest wet in America." Truly a noble title to travel under. Almost it suggests possibilities for presidential nomination.

SEARCHING BROWNING

In the multiplicity of clubs which spring out of the social, religious and literary soil of this vicinity, some endure for a brief season, while now and then one establishes roots of permanence and flourishes into a wholesome age. Has there ever existed here a Browning club? Such clubs some years ago presented a popular form of literary association. We have always thought upon the poet as an acquired taste, to be had only with much seeking after, though we are aware that with some he is set among the elect. We are moved to this allusion by the inquiry of a correspondent for the source of a Browning quotation:

The flesh I wear,
The earth I tread,
Are not more clear to me
Than my belief.

The latest edition of Bartlett quotes copiously from the poet but does not print these lines. Disparaging of running them down in the open fields of the poet's many volumes—a formidable task—we turn to our bookish readers who love to engage in this form of research.

FORD RESUMES WORK

Evidence continues to increase that the peak of unemployment has been passed and better conditions are manifesting themselves. Today's news from the Ford Motor Co. is one of the features, containing as it does the statement that fifteen to twenty-five thousand men are to be put to work on Sept. 8th, with expectation of the number being doubled by the middle of the month. It was only a month ago that these large forces were laid off. This early return of them is significant in its suggestion that Mr. Ford, a keen observer of business conditions, perceives real promise of returning prosperity.

TRAFFIC BY AIR

That within the period of ten days half a hundred passengers should make use of the Boston-Bangor airplane service in relation to its Rockland connection, suggests the importance of this community as a link in the new agency for travel. The history of these newly installed air lines shows gradual growth in business, which should prove true in this case. It would have been too bad to leave Rockland out of the calculation, as one time seemed likely to happen.

"ON MY SET"

In a little more than a month hundreds of Knox County radios will be tuned in on the World Series baseball games, which now bid fair to be played by the Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Cardinals. Meantime make sure that those tubes are o. k.

The pleasures indulged in by the WEEL broadcaster and E. B. Ridout, each morning are listened to with interest. Maine folks were filled with pride yesterday morning when the morning broadcaster told how he had spent his vacation at Greenville, Moosehead Lake, and intimated that it was the ideal place.

Bobby Jones will discuss the "Battle of Beverly Country Club" at Chicago where the best of America's amateur golfers will contend for his abdicated title when he is interviewed by Grantland Rice during the Coca-Cola program Wednesday, at 10:30 p. m. The tournament will be at its half-way mark, and only the more skilled golfers will remain after three days of competition.

While the duel between those Titans of the track, Sun Beau and Twenty Grand, in the Saratoga Cup, has attracted most attention in the two-race broadcast of next Saturday, the Hopeful Stakes which Clever McCarthy will describe at 4:30 p. m., promises to be a stirring contest.

German listeners will hear authentic Negro music in the second of a series of good will programs overseas to Germany by the National Broadcasting Co. The program will be broadcast in America from 5 to 6 p. m. next Sunday. The program has been titled "The Dixie Jubilee."

The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, dramatic series based on Arthur Conan Doyle's celebrated detective stories, will return to the air Sept. 17, at 9:30 p. m. The same cast has been retained. "The Adventure of the Speckled Band," which inaugurated the earlier series, has been selected again for the opening episode. Thereafter the series will assume a different form of presentation. Instead of giving a separate adventure each week, the producers will select longer stories and present them in serials of varying length. The first of these is to be "The Hound of the Baskervilles."

WE HAVE MATHEMATICAL CHANCE

But Everything Points To Another Pennant Fluttering In That New St. George Ball Park

The League Standing

While it seems to be all over but the shouting there are many inquiries as to whether Rockland has a mathematical chance of winning the pennant and Bok prize. Yes, Rockland has four remaining games and St. George five on the schedule as now arranged. Should St. George lose all five its standing would be 14 won and 12 lost. Should Rockland win all four its standing would be 15 won and 11 lost. There also enters into the proposition the matter of the game with Camden which Rockland protested last week. Should the protest be allowed Rockland would have five games to play instead of four.

There would seem to be small doubt that St. George will repeat its championship stunt, and if so no fair minded person will begrudge Manager Bayley's team that honor. The slight element of doubt serves to make the remaining games very interesting. The standing:

| | Won | Lost | Pct. |
|------------|-----|------|------|
| St. George | 14 | 7 | .666 |
| Rockland | 11 | 11 | .500 |
| Thomaston | 10 | 11 | .476 |
| Camden | 8 | 14 | .364 |

This Week's Games

Tonight (5:45)—Thomaston at Rockland.

Wednesday (5:45 p. m.)—Camden at St. George.

Thursday (5:45)—St. George at Rockland.

Friday (5:45)—St. George vs. Thomaston at Rockland.

Saturday (4:30 p. m.)—Thomaston at Camden.

Note: Double-headers will result in the event storm prevents the playing of any of the above games.

St. George 6, Thomaston 2

The double-header scheduled at Community Park for Saturday did not materialize because of the two-hour debate which ensued as to whether the conditions were fit for playing at all. In the end, however, one game was played and it proved a very interesting contest, besides advancing St. George another step toward the pennant.

The team from the Harbor unlimbered a new pitcher by the name of Grubb, who has served his prep school career last spring. He enters Colgate University this year, and is said to have been offered $5000 by the New York Giants to sign up with that team after he completes his college course. His appearance on the St. George team at this juncture appears to be because he is the guest of Rev. Mr. Moore of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who is summing at St. George. The Thomastonians were a bit perplexed to find him in the rural atmosphere of Knox County, but offered no formal objection.

In fact they gave him a very cordial reception in the first inning, successive hits being made by Feehan, Vinal and M. Sawyer. There were already two men out, however, and Feehan was nipped at the plate on a particularly fine throw by M. Simmons in center field. After that, Thomaston made only two hits until the eighth inning when they landed on him for three more consecutive hits, making their only scores of the game.

Except for his freedom in issuing passes to first Condon pitched an excellent game, holding Dwyer & Co. to eight hits.

The game was really wrecked so far as Thomaston was concerned when a base on balls, two passed balls, a single by Morrissey and a double by Feyley netted St. George three runs.

The star of this game was Morrissey, who accepted eight chances, some of them so difficult that nothing but his long frame and agility served to scoop 'em in. He was ably seconded in his fine showing by Johnny Davidson, who said to sundry wild throws: "They shall not pass." Vinal, M. Simmons, Monaghan and Stone picked some nice ones out of the foggy dome. Stone nabbed five of them besides making a very fine throw to Benner at third.

The Score:

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wilson, Mrs. Beatrice Watts and daughter Patricia of Thomaston and Mr. Frye and daughter of Rockland.

The Philadelphia Colored Giants won their fourth consecutive victory at Tugus Sunday by a score of 3 to 2. Jeff Mealey played rightfield for Tugus contributing one of the few hits made by that team off Jackman the underhand twirler of the colored aggregation. Later in the game he hit a vicious grounder which would probably have won the game for Tugus if it had bounded an inch higher over the pitcher's head. He caught one fly nicely and would have made a dash running catch if he had not slipped on the semi-muddy turf.

The fans are admiring the excellent work of the four centerfielders in the Twilight League—Mealey of Rockland, Dailey of Camden, Vinal of Thomaston and M. Simmons of St. George.

Thomaston 4, Rockland 3

Rockland had a lead of 3 to 1 in the fourth inning at Community Park last night while the game continued to play high grade baseball was found to have shot her bolt, as only one hit was made off Kirkland, the auburn-haired ace from Camp Wapello. Gray was very effective the greater part of the game, but it was Grafton's lusty swat in the last inning following an equally lusty swat by Benner and a wild pitch which gave Thomaston the winning run.

Rockland introduced a new player by the name of McPhee, who played a rattling good game at short, and who demonstrated very plainly that he knows what a bat is for. What a pity that this good natured and highly efficient infielder could not have been in Rockland's lineup at the beginning of the season! Some nice infielding was also done last night by Oney, Fowler and Boggs while Frye, McCarty, Stone and Grafton played the outer gardens in right fine style.

WEATHER

This first day of September brings the crisp morning air and clear blue skies which we are wont to associate with the first of the fall months. Wind is northwest. The closing days of August had a variety of weather, not up to the standard set by the month as a whole. Friday and Saturday kept the shoppers dodging showers, and cheated the baseball fans of the double-header they had anticipated at Community Park. Sunday morning was dubious but by early afternoon the sun had broken through the clouds. Yesterday morning was also delightful, noon temperature 75, but the afternoon shower was very wet while it lasted. This morning mercury 52.

L. W. Fickett and Don Clark of the Maine Music Store left yesterday afternoon for Boston where for several days they will take a special course in servicing the new R.C.A. Victor.

The Rockland baseball team goes to Togus next Sunday for what will probably be the closing game of the season there. As before, the team, while playing under the name of Rockland, will represent the flower of Knox County, with a hired pitcher.

Kenneth V. White's short wave radio station on Sunday intercepted a message being sent from a station in Spain to one in Peoria, Ill. It was Russian and was to be forwarded to a party in New York. This was promptly done by Kenneth who had made a careful transcription of the message.

Congressman Donald B. Partridge, who spoke before the Forty Club yesterday, was a caller at The Courier-Gazette office before departing for home. He smiled enigmatically when asked if he had any political plans for the future, but it looked as if some interesting word might soon come out of the Oxford hills.

The date of the annual concert by the students of the summer school of the Curtis Institute has been announced for Friday, Sept. 11, in Rockport Town hall, under the direction of Josef Hofmann. Further details will be announced.

Irving Elwell who attended the ball game at Togus Sunday improved the opportunity to call upon Capt. William P. Cook at the Hospital Building. He found this 92-year-old Civil War veteran in excellent spirits, able to read and write without glasses, and as keen minded as in his prime. He is in fact talking of making a Rockland visit before long.

There will be a supper at Penobscot View Grange Thursday at 6.30. The program for the evening will include singing, My Old Kentucky Home, roll call, places of interest in Maine visited during the summer; the story of Labor Day by Mrs. Stewart, reading, It's all in the state of the mind, Minnie Miles; singing, Work for the Night is Coming; state current events, Charles Gregory; readings, Mary Gregory, Lizzie Smith, Margaret Maxcy, Harriet E. Richardson; special reading by Myra Dyer and special music; a talk by Rev. Charles Crane.

The annual meeting of the Maine Library Association will be held in Kittery tomorrow, Thursday and Friday, when the Fogg Memorial Library of Eliot and the Rice Library of Kittery will combine to entertain the members of the association. A banquet will be held in the Grange hall, with Henry E. Dunnack, State Librarian, acting as master of ceremonies. May Lambert Becker will be the speaker of the evening. At the morning session, Louis Ibbotson, librarian of the University of Maine, will address the gathering, and the evening speakers will be Mary Ellen Chase and Eric Kelley, both well known writers. The feature of Friday will be a book display and a talk on the new fall books by Charles E. Campbell of Portland. The Rockland library will close Thursday so that the entire force, including Miss Margaret Snow, librarian, Miss Ruth Rogers, Miss Hazel Marshall and Mrs. Stella McRae, may attend.

The little daughter of Ernest Cayton was knocked down by a motor car driven by John Achorn of Rockport at the Ford runway Sunday evening. She was taken to Knox Hospital, but seemed to be suffering nothing more serious than a bruise on the forehead. It was said that no blame was attached to the driver.

Brilliant moon and excellent roads indicate that the Seth Parker entertainment at Owl's Head this evening will find a filled house. This fourth presentation of Seth Parker in this locality is being given by the same cast as last winter. The proceeds will be used to help defray expenses on repairs recently made on the church.

WALTER G. TIBBITTS

Death of Prominent Californian, a Former Well-Known Rockland Boy

The news which reached Rockland Aug. 23, of the death of Capt. Walter Greenough Tibbitts, incurred in an automobile accident that day near Clarksville, Calif., brought deep sorrow to this city, his native home, and where his surviving brother, William F. Tibbitts, and his sister, Mrs. A. D. (Maria Tibbitts) Bird, still reside.

A letter received by Mrs. Bird from her son Ralph, who lives in California, states that Capt. and Mrs. Tibbitts, together with Mrs. Maude Wright of Merced, a friend who had been visiting them at their camp at Echo Lake in the Sierras, were returning to their home in Alameda to attend a birthday gathering for their son, Walter. Somewhere between Placerville and Fresno, as they were making a left turn, one of the front tires blew out, making it impossible to steer the car, which crashed through the fence. One of the fence rails pierced the windshield, striking Capt. Tibbitts in the chest, killing him instantly. Another rail struck Mrs. Tibbitts, who was in the rear seat, breaking her collar bone, a rib, severing an artery in the right forearm, and bruising her shoulder and the side of her body badly.

Mrs. Wright, who was beside Capt. Tibbitts in the front seat, was uninjured, and through her training as a nurse was able to render valuable assistance. She freed Capt. Tibbitts from the car and found he was past help. Then turning to Mrs. Tibbitts she made a tourniquet, stopping the loss of blood from the severed artery, until help could be gotten from a passing car, about 10 minutes later. Mrs. Tibbitts is now at the Alameda Sanitarium.

Capt. Tibbitts was born in Rockland Sept. 26, 1861, the son of Alpha Chander and Fidelia (Farrow) Tibbitts. The elder Tibbitts was a sailmaker in those busy shipping days and young Walter on graduating from high school learned the trade. Then at the age of 19 he heard the call of the sea and shipped on the schooner Nile, Capt. Luke Spear, of the White & Case fleet, of New York. There he joined the clipper ship Oracle for San Francisco, which was destined to be his home and out of which port he commanded ships of the famous Chapman & Flint Line, the smartest clippers afloat. Many times he crossed the western ocean and was known as one of the most successful masters on the coast. Then he left the sea and became prominent ashore, building several vessels and engaging in other noteworthy enterprises in which he prospered.

In the year 1917 he founded the Barnes & Tibbitts Construction Co. of Alameda and five years later became president of the Western Housing Corporation. In addition to serving on the State Harbor Board, he was for many years a member of the Alameda City Planning Commission, only recently resigning as chairman. His striking personality and pronounced ability surrounded him with friends and admirers to whom his untimely death has brought deep sadness.

Capt. Tibbitts was married Sept. 12, 1893, to Grace Thaurber Cilley of Rockland, daughter of the late Major Gen. Jonathan P. Cilley, and there are two sons, Jonathan C. of Alameda and Walter Farrow Tibbitts of Piedmont, as well as the Rockland brother and sister, surviving.

Capt. Tibbitts retained his love for old-time friends and scenes, and made a number of visits here, where he was always warmly welcomed. With Mrs. Tibbitts he had traveled much in Europe and his letters of travel published in this paper are pleasantly recalled.

The origin of the family is English, the early spelling of the name being Tibbitts. There are many descendants, the spelling Tibbitts is commonly used. Funeral services were held from the residence, 1246 St. Charles street, Alameda, on Aug. 26, with interment at Mountain View Cemetery.

Miss Etta O'Brien is back with The Courier-Gazette force, after a week's vacation.

Sunday sailings of the Eastern Steamship Lines will be discontinued after Sept. 6.

FEEDING THE FARM HORSE

The method of feeding the farm horse has much to do with his condition and with utilization of the feed, says the Bureau of Animal Industry. If the horse bolts his grain, make him eat it slowly by spreading it out in a flat box, by putting some smooth stones (about 3 inches in diameter) in a box, or by mixing the grain with bran, cut hay, or similar feed. If two kinds of hay are fed, one of which is especially palatable, the horse may waste the feed by pulling it out and trampling it. In this case, feed only one kind at a time. Feed some hay before the night grain, as otherwise the horse fills up on hay afterwards, and grain is forced through stomach too quickly. Keep the grain box and manger free from chaff, dirt, and other trash. Feed the horse only at regular intervals in the work season.

TO RIPEN TOMATOES

If handled right, tomatoes will ripen successfully after frost has killed the vines. It is probably best to pick all the tomatoes after the first frost. Select only unblemished fruits that are mature or nearly so, and avoid bruising or other injury. Those in the right stage of ripeness show a yellowish-white color near the blossom ends or on the sides. A well-ventilated dry cellar is a good place for ripening. Put the tomatoes in one layer on shelves or shallow trays. If the room is dark the tomatoes will ripen more uniformly. At a temperature of about 70 deg. F. with a humidity of from 75 to 80 percent, tomatoes ripen rapidly but do not keep well after ripening. At a temperature of 60 deg. F. they ripen at a moderate rate. A temperature of about 55 deg. F. is the lowest at which they will ripen satisfactorily.

Fresh tomatoes can be filled with almost any left-over meat or vegetable for a stuffed tomato salad. A filling made of chopped meat such as chicken, veal or tongue, cooked peas, chopped pickles or cucumber, celery, and salad dressing, is very good. After the tomatoes have been peeled and scooped out, they should be seasoned inside with salt, turned upside down to drain, and placed in the icebox until the time to fill and serve them.

Winter killing causes nearly as heavy losses to the winter wheat crop as all wheat diseases combined. Using hardy varieties, sowing in stubble or cornstalks, preparing a firm seed-bed on fallowed land by means of a duck-foot cultivator, sowing with furrow drills at proper rates and dates, and mulching with straw, reduce winter injury of wheat.

Dairy cows produce more milk if they have constant access to pure drinking water than if they are watered irregularly or only at certain hours. An automatic water bowl for each cow is the best way to supply water while the cows are confined in individual stalls. The Bureau of Dairy Industry has found. Place it at the right height—from 26 to 28 inches above the floor for Jerseys and other small breeds and from 28 to 30 inches for Holsteins.

Sheep will probably be fewer in the next two or three years, says the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, in its midsummer sheep and wool outlook. Lamb production is at high levels, and poor range will probably cause western sheepmen to market more than the usual proportion of the lamb crop and to hold back fewer ewe lambs for breeding. The proportion of unfinished lambs in the marketing of Western lambs will be above average, the bureau expects.

A MARINE RODEO

Wellfleet Masses Its Forces To Drive Unwelcoming Whales To Sea

Wellfleet, famed in history as a whaling town, has mobilized its citizens in a war against the mammal which once brought her fame and glory.

A school of nearly 1000 have been chased to sea by boats manned by men and women, many of them the children of noted Massachusetts whaling men.

The herd of small whales, known to the initiate as black fish, appeared at the harbor entrance Tuesday. They were first sighted by Captain L. D. Baker, who spread the alarm. Scores of residents responded and dories, motorboats and larger sailing vessels were manned as the Cape Codders prepared to drive the mammals out to sea.

Two hours were required to turn the leaders of the herd seaward and during the "rodeo" the shores were lined with vacationists.

The small whales, which weighed from 3 to 6 tons, came in last year and wintered on the beach. It cost the town a great deal to bury the mammals and their presence on the beach presents a menace to the health of the residents.

ROBBINS REUNION

Mrs. May F. Robbins Writes of Their Old-time Gatherings

[Lines read by their writer at the recent family gathering]
 The Robbins family have gathered once more.
 To unite in friendship they have come
 To greet one another in peace and good will.
 And proclaim to the faithful ones "Well Done."

Full many years have we met together.
 But in a larger number than we meet today.
 We looked forward to those pleasant gatherings
 When all came, some from a long distance away.

Fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters
 Some times there were three hundred in all.
 Always on time for the bountiful dinner
 When the tables sent forth the welcome call.

Uncle Willard was one of our grand old ones
 Whose voice rang out in gladness song,
 "Marching Through Georgia" was his favorite.
 Yet, many others he was very fond.

The older ones who are with us today,
 No doubt took a part in singing those hymns,
 Seldom Wiley, E. M. Stubbs, Jeriel Hart
 And the Gushes.

Which in their memory will never grow dim.
 What a large and happy family circle
 Assembled on that first reunion day!
 So long ago, but pleasant memories
 Have often cheered us along our way.

We were always sure of a glad welcome
 With "Old Glory" proudly waving on high.
 Making us feel the spirit of patriotism,
 With peace and good fellowship ever nigh.

O, for the good old reunion days,
 When children's voices rang out in childish glee,
 For their bright faces gladdened the day,
 And sad hearts were made light hearted and free.

We renewed old acquaintances then,
 And many new faces did we meet.
 Yes, we enjoyed those pleasant gatherings,
 For this grand old family we love to greet.

Softly, oh! softly the years have come and gone,
 Each in its turn has quickly slipped away.
 But just a clasp of that friendly hand,
 Has cheered our hearts along life's way.

There has been many a summer's sun,
 As well as many a winter's snow,
 Since first we met in that happy reunion
 Just five and forty years ago.

The marine slogan might be amended to "Join the Lindbergh family and see the world."—Indianapolis Star.

Stella's Ten Dollar Bill Recovered

By RUTH DAVIS SARGENT

HE GAVE it to her that morning with quite a bit of gusto. It was such a lot of money, all together, to hand to anybody. Stella flushed with pride as she slipped it in her worn pocketbook.

"Well, my girl," Bill had said, "I guess now you and the young ones'll be getting some of those things you've been telling me you needed."

"Oh, Bill, honey," Stella said, "Isn't it wonderful, after these four long weeks with you wearing out shoe leather trying to find a job, to have finally gotten placed, and to be giving me ten dollars to fix up the kiddies and ourselves?"

"Don't forget yourself, Stella," Bill admonished her. "If you see some little thing you want, buy it." And then, slowly, "but go easy with it, old girl. I don't need to tell you that, I know. But ten dollars is a lot of money today. Buy the things we really need."

"I'll hang on to it till I see just the right things, Bill dear," she promised, kissing him good-by at the door.

Stella's work went quickly that morning. She whistled a little tune as she did the dishes. It had been so long since they had had money. The kiddies were a little ragged and worn in their last year's clothes. And Bill, the things he needed, and herself, too. Well, she'd buy some of them this fine morning. She's surprised. Bill tucked the bill, retraced her steps anxiously to the very door of the store. But the ten dollars was gone.

She thought her heart would break as she stepped into the busy street. Bill's hard-earned ten dollars gone! How could she have been so careless. Why hadn't she noticed that hole in the pocketbook before she had placed that precious bill within it.

She paused a moment before the entrance of the great Hotel Graydon, leaning against a pillar for support. The world had gone dizzy and black before her eyes.

A car, large and shining, drove up before the Graydon, a chauffeur at the wheel. A lady, beautifully gowned and middle-aged, came down the driveway, where she had tucked the bill, retraced her steps anxiously to the very door of the store. But the ten dollars was gone.

"Is something the matter?" the woman asked kindly. "You looked as if you were about to fall. Are you faint?"

"Thank you; no," Stella spoke bravely, but there was no mistaking it. Her heart was beating fast. "Won't you tell me what's troubling you?" the woman urged. "I can see you are bothered by something. Perhaps it might help you if you knew I had a daughter once, a girl who would be about your age now. I lost her."

The sympathy Stella saw in every line of the sweetly saddened face regarding her was exactly what she needed.

"Oh, I shouldn't tell you this," she began. "I don't even know how it happened. But it was all this morning my husband, Bill, oh, you can't guess how good he is to me, gave me ten dollars to buy things for the babies and myself. He worked so hard for it. And now, well, I don't know how, but I've lost it. And it was all Bill had to give. And I've lost it!"

Tears poured unrestrained down Stella's cheeks. It seemed so even more monstrous, now that she had said it, that she had lost that ten dollars. Then she was surprised by a light in the woman's eyes.

"Do you know, my dear," the woman was saying excitedly, fumbling in her own beaded purse, "it's the most curious thing, but Jason, he's my chauffeur, found this ten-dollar bill in front of one of the large stores. I think it was—"

"Blakeley's?" Stella asked eagerly.

"Yes, Blakeley's," the woman went on, "and, my dear, fancy finding you just after you'd lost it!"

"Why, how wonderful," Stella exclaimed. "To have you find me right after I'd lost it," she echoed like a child.

"Well, run and do your errands, my dear!" the woman smiled and gave her a kindly, maternal push. "And it won't be until after the woman had departed in her great car, and Stella was on her way rejoicing with the ten-dollar bill held close to her hand, that it dawned upon her that she wasn't clasping the same ten-dollar bill at all with which she had started from home. This one was new and fresh. The other had been overworked and crumpled. But the woman and her car were gone. Stella had no idea who she was. And she still had ten dollars with which to buy things for the babies. Stella's heart gave a great bound of felicity. What a good old world it was after all!

That's an idea
 "Now boys," said the professor, "if you'll just put a few crazy answers in your examination I can sell them to a magazine for $20."

SUMMER SWALLOWS

By Jane Rogers

THERE really isn't anything on a scorching mid-summer afternoon

equal an iced beverage for driving away the depressing effects of the heat. The musical clink of ice in the glasses, the delicious tang of wisely blended fruit juices and the new energy which science has found is supplied by the sugar used for sweetening, all combine to give one a new zest in life. The ease with which cooling drinks are prepared permits no one an excuse for not enjoying them.

Ambrosia Punch
 Mix together one quart grape juice, juice of three oranges, juice of three lemons, one-half teaspoon ground cinnamon, one cup sugar. Stir until the sugar is thoroughly dissolved. Add one quart ginger ale.

Tickets are now on sale for "Nancy's Private Affair" to be presented next Friday evening at Town hall by the Trumbull Players. Lovers of good comedy will want to see this play as those who have witnessed it in the larger cities speak highly of its humor, and the players will surely bring to it the same strong acting that they have exhibited in the two previous performances, "My Son" and "Smilin' Through," which so delighted their audiences.

A group of the younger social set numbering 60 were delightfully entertained Friday evening at Eastholm. Supper was served in the attractive porch dining room which was adorned with cut flowers. In the dance hall the decorations were of pastel shades of crepe paper. Music was by Lou Merrithew, banjo, Vinal Smith trombone, Neil Calderwood, piano, John Roberts, drums. The pretty colored favors added to the gay coloring of the gowns, and a scene of animation and happiness was presented.

"Honor at Stake," Youth Steals Rather Than Beg
 Birmingham, Ala.—To save his honor, James Robert Benson, nineteen, committed two robberies which netted him $143. He told authorities that he was broke and rode into town on a freight train. "And do you think I would ask a man for a dime on the streets? Not say no," he explained. He said his honor was at stake and that he'd rather steal than beg.

Homestead in Path of Road Holds Up Work
 Pittston, Pa.—Definite steps have been taken to remove "the house in the middle of the road" at Moose near here. The house, owned by John Garvey, has obstructed completion of the highway between here and Scranton for several years due to a dispute over price. An award of $13,500 was made to the Garveys but Mooseborough was unable to pay the assessment, and the owners refused to relinquish their title until full payment was made. To date, judgments aggregating $70,000 have been returned against the borough as the result of the road construction. Two had turns must be made by motorists before they can pass around the Garvey homestead.

Hints for Homemakers
 By Jane Rogers
 WHEN the inner soles of your favorite bedroom slippers become shabby, tear them out and replace with new ones which can be quickly made from a discarded felt hat. Glue them in lightly. Sliced fruits intended for salads can be given a distinctive and piquant flavor by marinating them for an hour or so in a liquid composed of eight tablespoons lemon juice, eight tablespoons orange juice, ten tablespoons oil, two tablespoons sugar and one-half teaspoon salt. When ready to serve, drain and serve with mayonnaise or other cooked dressing. The liquid, known as a marinade, keeps well in a covered jar and makes an excellent dressing for green salads.

Not long ago an article in The Courier-Gazette asked why so much pink phlox seems to be crowding other colors to one side. Perhaps I can do my bit toward helping to solve the problem. I have several kinds and they are all bright colors or white, and I have noticed that when I let them go to seed the seedlings are all different from the parent plant and most of them are a washed out or dingy pink color. At first I wondered where these came from, as I had never had any such uninteresting colors, but on reading an article written by some practical florist, I learned that self sown seeds of phlox are not reliable, and nearly always produce flowers of faded pink colors. I have found that phlox plants are greatly benefited if the roots are separated and reset every few years. Try it and you will be surprised at the tangle of matted roots you will find when you divide them.

I see that the black raspberry query has been answered, but I think I can add to the testimony, for I have seen them growing wild in the vicinity of Thorndike, Maine, where they were called "thimble berries." My nearest neighbor has several very prolific bushes at her back door which she kindly offered to divide with me, but before I had the opportunity to take them up two very thrifty ones came up in my flower garden, probably brought by birds, and when they began to bear I was much surprised and pleased to find the fruit a rich cream color instead of black. This year those bushes were taller than their owner, and bore all the berries I needed for two or three weeks. I picked a pint basket full every other day for a long time.

A good many years ago when skinning round the hill above the Oliver Holmes place I found a bush of this kind loaded with cream colored berries from which I picked almost a pint dipper full.

I went to the flower show at the Country Club and it was truly a wonderful display. I had not thought there were so many flowers in the whole city. I lingered a long time in the wild flower corner for many of my old woodland favorites were there and I found one old friend which I had not seen for twenty years or more and considered it my own discovery. On making inquiry I found that it was gathered in almost the exact spot where I discovered mine so many years ago, so it seemed more than ever an old friend. It was yellow foxglove, but don't send to a florist for seeds as I did, for you will only be disappointed as the yellow foxglove of the florist is but a dingy and unsatisfactory color, while the wild variety is a bright and cheerful yellow.

In the wild-flower corner I also found aralia in fruit, apios in flower, chelone or turtle head, closed gentian, indian pipe and several queer things which I could not name. One very pretty exhibit was a jar of wild carrot colored artificially by immersing the stems in colored water in the same way that pinks are colored green for Saint Patrick's Day. A bowl of tiny pompon dahlias—Belle of Springfield—took my fancy immensely, as they were the smallest I have ever seen, and I never greatly admired the big sprawling varieties which seem to be favorites with most dahlia fanciers. I made the rounds three times, bringing up each time in the wild-flower corner and stopping there longest. You will be glad to know that after all was over, a thoughtful friend sent me some of the remnants from this corner and I am trying hard to keep them growing, as much earth is still left on the roots and thus I hope to have a tiny wild flower corner of my own the coming winter. Some of the plants I recognize as coming from the region of "the bog" where I have spent so many happy days but when I have not been able to go for at least a dozen years.

I attended the meeting at the arboretum and there I met a basket full of old acquaintances, though they can hardly be called friends, as they were poisonous plants, both wild and cultivated. One plant which I had never seen was hemlock, and it was a rather attractive looking plant notwithstanding its shady reputation. None of the plants shown were poisonous to the touch so they were passed round and all had a close view of them. It has always seemed to me that there is gross carelessness in the way we allow children to pick and handle aconite (monkshood) as it is quite common in gardens and also an almost deadly poison when eaten. Children are so prone to put flowers in the mouth that I pulled up the roots of aconite which were in my garden when I fell heir to it, and threw them on the rubbish heap out of harm's way. What my advice asked I should certainly say "Go thou and do likewise."

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Heal and son Harold in company with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rhodes of Rockport and others motored to Carmel Sunday to attend the campmeeting.

Mrs. Clifford Doerflinger and daughter Doris of Watertown, Mass., have been visiting Mrs. Doerflinger's niece, Mrs. Walter Wheeler, the past few weeks.

A pleasant surprise was in store for those who attended the Sunday evening service here by the attendance of several able preachers whose parents were former members and workers in this church. Rev. Harry Leach of Hackensack, N. J., was invited to take charge of the service. Prayer was offered by Rev. Paul James of Auburn, N. Y. There were two duets by Mrs. James and Miss Leach and Rev. Henry Vinal, a native of this village, gave an interesting talk. Vesper Leach of Rockland and other members of the Leach-Vinal families were also present. Rev. and Mrs. Henry Vinal were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. It was a very enjoyable event for everyone.

A Pontiac coupe and a Ford touring car were in collision Sunday evening near the residence of Henry Lamson. The State Police held an investigation.

Mr. and Mrs. William Vinal of Portland and Miss Carleen Vinal who have been employed at the Samoset during the summer, were weekend guests of Mrs. Emma V. Leach. Miss Vinal returned to Portland with her parents Sunday afternoon.

The annual church fair was held Thursday afternoon on the Andrews lawn opposite the postoffice. Not all the goods were sold but on the whole it was counted very successful, and thanks are due all who contributed or helped in any way.

Mrs. Mabel St. Clair of South Warren spent the weekend with relatives in this section and attended the fair. Mrs. Laura Packard and Miss Mary Calderwood of Glenwood visited Thursday with Mrs. Emma V. Leach and were present at the fair.

POPE'S PERSONAL PHONE INSTALLED IN 30-DAY JOB

Telephone Engineers Encounter Many Difficulties in Ancient Vatican Buildings.

New York.—The difficulties of installing a modern telephone system in the century old Vatican City at Rome, especially as complicated by ancient walls four feet thick and the fear of destroying Michelangelo frescoes and other priceless masonry, were related by Pilade Leon, engineer of the International Telephone and Telegraph company, who returned recently from the Holy City.

Mr. Leon, who passed 14 months in the Vatican, constructing the system which provides 450 telephones for Pope Pius XII, and the 408 people in the Holy City, said that the most painstaking performance of all was the installation of the telephone in the pope's personal apartment. Only 20 minutes each month while the pontiff attended mass, were allotted the engineers, with the result that the work required an entire month compared to the ten hours it would have taken under normal conditions.

"I don't believe I have ever encountered such a unique situation," Mr. Leon said. "The Vatican City is four and one-half miles square. We had neither maps nor charts. And when you consider that the whole area is honeycombed with buildings dating back to the Eleventh and Twelfth centuries, the very origins of which are obscure, you understand the task it was."

They had instructions, he said, warning against any disturbance of such works of art as frescoes, masonry, and relief work. When they came upon such art obstacles they were forced to do the work on the outside of the buildings and when they were blocked by the frescoes of Michelangelo in the Sixtine chapel it was necessary to resort to underground tunneling.

The difficulties which it was not unusual for his men to descend two or three stories underground, open some ancient door and find themselves in a dark dungeon. Another troublesome impediment was the thickness of the walls, often four feet thick, in which stone and mortar were so solidified by passing centuries that it was like trying to drill through steel.

New Haven Has Oldest Weather Records in U. S.

New Haven, Conn.—The oldest continuous weather records of the Western hemisphere are believed in the possession of the United States weather bureau here.

While recordings have been found in other places pre-dating those of New Haven, they have not been kept regularly and do not constitute an unbroken record of readings at specific intervals, according to Leonard M. Tarr, government meteorologist.

Previous to the establishment of the weather bureau here in 1873, records were compiled faithfully by professors at Yale university. These records were turned over to the government and continued without interruption for 152 years. According to Tarr, the first thermometer was used in North Carolina in 1670, and readings were noted down without regard for regularity.

Boston and New Bedford, Mass., have readings older than New Haven, but again they are not continuous.

Settles Balm Suit for $200; Refused Divorce

Atlantic City, N. J.—Harold N. Eichler put such a low value on his wife's affections that he lost his divorce suit recently in the New Jersey Court of Chancery.

When Eichler admitted he had settled a $10,000 heart balm action for $200, Vice Chancellor Robert H. Ingersoll took him in hand. "A man who will sign a release of his wife's affections for $200 can't be believed," the jurist declared, "and therefore your petition for divorce is dismissed."

Prison Hash Makes Communist Repentant

San Francisco.—Announcing the newest recipe for dissolving the color in deep dyed Communists, prison hash, James Lacey, sent to jail for inciting a disturbance, set up such a conversational din in court that he was sent back to his cell. A week later Police Judge Steiger had him brought before him again and asked him if he was repentant. "I'll do anything to get away from that hash," Lacey said meekly. He was given a lecture on citizenship and released.

Foreign Talkies Help Students of Languages

Chapel Hill, N. C.—Education of youths through means of talkies has been put into operation here by E. Carrington Smith, manager of the Carolina theater. Regular programs of foreign language pictures are presented each week.

So far, the pictures have been mostly in Spanish, French and German. Most of the pictures are filmed in foreign lands. Foreign language professors of the University of North Carolina are enthusiastic about the plan.

Swarms of Seagulls

London.—The worst fog in living memory descended on North Essex, and traffic was stopped in many places. At times it was impossible to see two yards ahead in the Danbury and Woodham areas. Ravenous sea gulls swarmed all over the inland fields, eating all food in sight. The birds came in flocks of thousands which had hitherto been unknown.

ONE FOOT OF LAND BARS HOME OWNER FROM ROAD

Really Firm Reserved Plot When Buyer Refused to Pay for Improvements.

Baltimore.—Stepping across a strip of land one foot wide, even though the ground itself is not touched, constitutes trespass and is preventable by law, the Maryland Court of Appeals has decided. A curious contest for the right to walk over a narrow strip separating a house owner's property from the public highway arose in a lawsuit brought by a realty company against Alonzo Slayman, in Baltimore county, and later tried at Annapolis.

As a result of the decision, Slayman, who owns the property facing on an improved street, is prevented from using the highway because he cannot step across the one intervening foot of ground which he does not own.

When the realty company, which owned the development, started the construction of a paved street which would pass in front of Slayman's lot, he was assessed $300 for his share of the expense of laying the road. He refused to pay, claiming he did not want the improvement sufficiently to pay that amount.

The realty company proceeded to build the highway. Instead of making it the full 50-foot width as intended, the roadway was narrowed to 40 feet, leaving a one-foot margin between the paved road and Slayman's property. The completed road was then turned over to the county.

Slayman, in order to use the new road, was obliged to step across the one-foot strip, which he did without touching it. The realty company then warned him that passing over its strip of ground constituted trespass and filed suit in the County court to prevent him.

The judge in the County court ruled that the strip had been "reserved for the highway" and refused to grant the realty company the right to prevent Slayman using it.

The Court of Appeals, however, took the opposite view. Even though the company reserved the one-foot strip "for purposes of which the court might not approve," that did not interfere with its legal right to prevent trespass over it. The Appellate court then granted an injunction against Slayman.

Pays Inventor's Heirs for Fuse Used in War

Paris.—The heirs of Andre Lefevre, who perfected a shrapnel fuse used by Allied armies during 1917 and 1918, have been awarded $3,200 damages from the French government and the costs of their suit as payment for the invention.

M. Lefevre, former minister of war, finished work on the L. A. L. fuse in August, 1916, and presented the plan to the Ecole Polytechnique de Bourges. The fuse was accepted and manufacture and use of it begun, but the rights of the inventor were not protected. After the war M. Lefevre sought payment from the Allied armies, but all except Belgium refused. He obtained a decision from the war ministry that payment was due him, but the amount could not be decided. The petitioner died soon after, and the question was dropped until his heirs brought suit against the government a short time ago.

Experiments Show How Far We Walk Every Day

Boston.—The average American takes 18,000 steps per day, the equivalent of 7 1/2 miles.

At least this is the estimate of Dr. Joseph Lelyveld of Boston, director of research for the National Association of Chiropractors-Podiatrists, based on a series of experiments.

The average housewife, in doing her daily household tasks walks as far as from coast to coast each year.

Other mileages recorded in studies of pedestrians of all walks of life included:

Woman shopper, 8 1/2 miles per day; schoolboy, 15 miles; school girl, 11 1/2 miles; doctor, 18 miles; farmer with plow, 25 1/2 miles; salesgirl, 8 miles; steward in grill room, 12 1/2 miles; conductor, 7 miles; policeman, 14 miles letter carrier, 22 miles; store manager, 6 1/2 miles.

Loud Speaker Plays Prank on Woman Orator

Washington.—A loud speaker recently played a cruel prank on Miss Maude K. Wetmore of Newport, R. I. when she was about to address a session of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform here.

She had no end of trouble adjusting her voice to the amplifier. It was either too low or too loud. Miss Wetmore was provoked. In an aside she exclaimed, "O! What's the matter with the darned thing?" The loud speaker was never better. It sent her words booming out to her audience to be greeted by much laughter and applause.

Excavations Throw Light on Ancient Bohemians

Prague.—Excavations, which threw light on the cave dwellers of northern Bohemia of 2300 B. C., have been made near Maerisch-Neustadt in North Mahren. Well preserved caves have been uncovered. They show a comparatively comfortable standard of living. Stone fireplaces with cooking utensils of clay, knives, forks, spoons, of bronze, and tools of bronze, stone and iron, were found.

And education might put an end to bootlegging if the general public could be educated to a taste for good liquor.—San Diego Union.

Our prediction is that the depression will be over long before any two experts agree as to what caused it.—Judge.

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST

By ALBERT L. CLOUGH

Road Clearance On "Rough Going"

Look Out For Trouble On Rocky Byways

IN CASE YOU ARE tempted into or compelled to drive over a lumber-road or other by-road or trail, having stones or stumps sticking up through its surface, deep wheel ruts and very steep "pitches," always proceed very slowly and cautiously for fear that some of the under-works of the car may strike on a stone and be broken or that the car may ride upon some upstart protruding part of the road, so as to lift the rear wheels off the ground and thus become stuck through loss of traction. There is a general belief that if the front axle (the lowest part of a car) will clear a road obstruction, all other parts will do so as well and this supposition is true on level, even ground, but not necessarily so under conditions such as those of the neglected woods road. When a car is surmounting a very abrupt pitch or "thank you marm," especially if the wheel-base is long, while the front axle clears all right, some underpart to the rear of it may strike, particularly if the wheels are in deep ruts. The clutch and transmission housings are the vital and easily breakable parts most likely thus to hit a rock or other road obstruction, although mufflers are occasionally struck. The breakage of such a housing is expensive to repair and as all contained lubricant escapes, a car cannot be driven far if such an accident has occurred. The most risky combination of circumstances is a very abrupt pitch in a deeply rutted road, with a protruding rock or stump right in the middle of the track, in conjunction with a very long, low-hung car, having a long engine and a deep transmission housing. Under such conditions one cannot pick one's way too carefully or make the car creep along at too slow a pace and sometimes it is necessary to keep the wheels out of ruts as a safety measure. Motorists who take hunting and fishing trips and thus voluntarily travel on such "wild" roads, should use short cars having liberal road clearance.

OLD ENGINE "PICKS UP" SLOWLY

T. W. writes: I have an old car which serves me so well that I hate to part with it. Its only serious shortcoming is its slowness in picking up speed as compared with modern cars. Is there anything I can do to improve it in this respect?

Answer: You can probably improve the "get-away" of this car considerably by installing a modern model of carburetor in place of the original old style one, which we assume is still in service. All up-to-date carburetors have some form of accelerating device, which supplies extra gasoline at the moment of sudden throttle opening and this improves the pick-up of the engine. If this engine is so old that it has no hot spot manifold or any equivalent means for supplying heat to the mixture, its acceleration would probably be improved by installing such an arrangement.

SLIPPING CLUTCH

C. H. W. writes: Recently the clutch of my car has begun to slip when steep hills are climbed so that I have to shift to second speed. What do you think is wrong?

Answer: You may find that the facings have worn so much that the pedal strikes the floor boards, when it returns to its released position, and thus prevents the full force of the spring from acting to cause full pressure between the driving and driven clutch members. In this case the pedal adjustment should be changed so that there is a liberal amount of free play between it and the floor boards. Possibly the facings have become greasy and need to be washed with gasoline and it may be, though it is very unlikely, that the spring is weak.

RUN MOTOR OVER
FACE OF VICTIMNotorious New York Gangster

Murdered.

New York.—The body of Vincent Gaffney, notorious gangster and jail breaker, who headed the Gopher gang of Hell's Kitchen 13 years ago, was found in front of a bottling plant at 635 West Fifty-fourth street recently. The imprint of an automobile tire across his body and the marks of a wheel rim on the left leg led the police to believe that an automobile, with one tire missing, had been used as the final instrument in Gaffney's death. The gangster's head and face were crushed.

KEEPING IN TOUCH

The Amateur Radio Experts Tune In On the Trans-Asia Expedition

Communications history between organization headquarters and expeditions in the field is being written this summer in Washington, where the National Geographic Society is in almost daily touch with its staff representative, Maynard Owen Williams, who is with the Citroen-Haardt Trans-Asia Expedition among the Himalaya Mountains of northern India 7,500 miles away.

The reception of the frequent messages that fly from this remote region to Washington is dependent on the cooperation of the most elaborate network of amateur radio operators that has ever been organized as an aid to scientific exploration.

America's Best Operators Listen In
Each evening at 6 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, more than 150 of America's most expert amateur radio operators, under the supervision of the American Radio Relay League, listen in for messages from the expedition, which are relayed from a station in Byrrouth, Syria, at the eastern end of the Mediterranean Sea, more than 5,000 miles from Washington.

In most cases the messages are copied direct in Washington and are telephoned a little later to the headquarters of the National Geographic Society. On some occasions, however, atmospheric conditions have been so bad in the Washington area that it has been impossible to receive the messages. At these times some of the many other listeners with more favorable conditions in their regions have copied the messages, and they have been quickly relayed to their destination. During the more than three months since the expedition began its trek across Asia no messages have failed to reach Washington within a few hours after they were sent.

Message Confirms Remarkable Climb
The value of keeping in almost daily contact with a field party which is often far from ordinary channels of communication has been demonstrated on several occasions. The most recent of these was when a telegram from Srinagar, capital of Kashmir, stated that the expedition had found it impossible to negotiate the 14,000-foot Bureil Pass in the Himalayas with its motor cars and that they had been abandoned. Fears at the Society's headquarters were set at rest a few hours later when a radio message from the mountaineering party itself, 100 miles north of Srinagar, announced that the cars had climbed over Bureil Pass without serious difficulty and were proceeding steadily on their way toward the India-Chinese Turkestan border.

This is not the first experience of the National Geographic Society in communicating between headquarters and field parties by means of radio.

With the cooperation of the American Radio Relay League, The Society pioneered in such activities in 1925 when numerous reports were received through amateurs from the MacMillan-National Geographic-Navy Expedition to northwestern Greenland, the expedition with which Rear Admiral Byrd obtained his first Arctic flying experience. The technique of radio communication has been greatly improved since 1925, however, and the present communications network is believed to be more efficient than any similar organization which has been in operation.

ATTACKS FARM BOARD

Senator White Charges It With Indifference To American Interests

Senator Wallace H. White, Jr., co-author of the Jones-White Shipping bill, in a statement charges the Federal Farm Board with "indifference to American interests" in planning to use foreign ships to carry American wheat to Brazil in the recent agreement for a trade of wheat for Brazilian coffee.

He said that the numerous boards, bureaus and commissions "outside the executive department and beyond the authority of the President" had made it "increasingly difficult to coordinate many of the activities" of the government.

"The grievous blunder" in the use of foreign ships would not have been committed, he said, if the functions of the Farm Board had been conferred upon the Agricultural Department or upon the President.

"No excuse can be offered for the board. Its action deserves only criticism and condemnation."

SCHOONER WAS FLOATED

Gloucester Craft Clarence B. Mitchell Had Run In With Smutty Nose

The Gloucester fishing schooner Clarence B. Mitchell, which went ashore on Smutty Nose, a small island in Monhegan harbor, Saturday afternoon, was floated at flood tide late at night, being assisted by the crew of the Coast Guard Station at Burdett Island. So far as could be ascertained no damage was done to the craft.

The Mitchell struck when she swung out to allow the mail steamer Governor Douglass from Thomaston to Boothbay Harbor, to enter port, and soon after she went on the rocks she began to list, finally being at an angle of about 45 degrees. Two heavy hawsers were attached to her hull to prevent her from falling over and one of these parted within a few minutes but the other held her firmly.

The crew of 12 went aboard another craft in the harbor.

Heirlooms of Linen Chest

This 150-year-old cloth is in use today.

BY LINDA BROWNE

Twelve dozen of everything—that was the quantity which the proper Continental bride of a century ago received in her trousseau. It sounds lavish, but it was actually common sense, because our great-grandparents had a grand laundering only once every three months.

A relic of those brave days appears on special occasions now, in a smart New York home. The linen damask cloth shown above was woven by hand in the days when George Washington was more than a memory, and hand woven so finely that linen experts of today marvel at it. Narrow looms compelled the weavers to make this cloth in two strips, which are sewn together down the middle of the table.

An interesting feature of this setting is that the ancient damask creates a background of harmony for the latest silver, whose design identically matches it. So, when selecting a new house, well to remember that one is adding a permanent member to the household. Fine damask becomes an heirloom which acquires dignity with the years.

FIFTH HORSE SHOW

Younger Set At Dark Harbor Wins Laurels and Prizes In Annual Event

Younger members of the Dark Harbor summer colony had their annual horse show on Thursday when they rode the spirited steeds participating in the annual horse show.

The only part taken by older horse lovers was played by the judges, Mrs. Richard Babcock, Mrs. Richard Whitney and Mrs. Charles Morgan, Jr., all New York women.

Fourteen classes were scheduled, but one of these was scratched because Mrs. George Bourne, whose driving ponies have been an outstanding feature of the show for several seasons, was ill and unable to drive.

Comedy in the show was supplied by young Hazard Leonard, entered with Miss Dianna Dilworth in the wheelbarrow race. Master Hazard is somewhat frail Dianna, as was her namesake of old, proportioned for the hunt, and the horse didn't seem to realize what it was all about. She got three spills before her escort brought her to the finish line, thereby giving the grandstand sitters and rail birds the one big laugh of the afternoon. Pat Morgan and Emily Leonard were winners in this event.

The cup in the local surly class was given by Miss Dorothy Forbes, who, unable to attend the show personally, sent a congratulatory note to be read to the winner in the ring. Cup and note went to a rig from the Hale stables.

Incidentally, the same stable drove away with second, third and fourth ribbons.

Other events and winners: Class for girl riders under 12 years—Alice Whitney, first; Dianna Dilworth, second; Mary Aldrich, third.

For boy riders under 12 years:

Sardine Salad

By Janet Houston

Maine is noted for the beauty of its rock-bound coast and its deep sea fishing. Perhaps not everybody knows that, despite its size, not least in importance in the Maine fisherman's catch is the diminutive silvery sardine.

Has it never seemed strange to you, Mrs. American Housewife, that salmon and tuna fish should seem fitting ingredients of the salad plate to so many people and that only relatively few use sardines in the same manner? Assuredly this is no fault of the sardine; for the superlative flavor of these small fish has never seriously been questioned.

Try this salad the next time your mind turns to salmon and tuna fish and compare their merits for yourself:

One-half cup Maine sardines, shredded, and mixed with the juice of half a lemon.

One-half cup celery hearts, diced very fine.

One-half cup stuffed olives, cut very fine.

Mix all these ingredients together with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce leaves. Garnish with chopped nuts.

TENANT'S HARBOR

Winthrop Seavey and friend are occupying his cottage for a few weeks. Mr. Seavey's family will join him later.

Mrs. Etta Stimpson is caring for Mrs. Lizzie Burdick during her illness. Mr. Melquist is painting his house. Mrs. Mildred Morse was called home from Rockland by the illness of her mother Mrs. Weston Wiley.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Ulmer are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ulmer.

Harland Rawley is suffering with abscesses in his throat.

Edward Pease and Everett Snow are cutting bushes on the State road.

Richard Peterson is painting his house.

Mrs. Martha Farnham is critically ill. She is attended by Dr. Brown of Rockland.

Last Thursday night officers were nominated at Puritan Rebekah Lodge.

Mrs. Rose Dukeshire is guest of her daughter Mrs. Marion Baker at Elmore.

To obtain good tomato seed, select one or more plants which have a high proportion of good fruits, taking into account size, smoothness, solidity, and freedom from cracking in the fruit, and vigor, productiveness, and freedom from disease in the plant. The whole seed crop from a plant with uniformly good fruit will be better than that from a superlative fruit from a plant with some uneven or inferior fruits. Tag the selected plants and let the fruit remain on them until thoroughly ripe but not decayed. Tomatoes intercross only slightly and it is fairly safe to save seed from more than one variety in the garden.

A MAINE SONG

Desired By Maine Publicity Committee — Why Stein Song Doesn't Answer

The State of Maine Publicity Bureau believes that Maine should develop an outstanding Maine song, one that will not only thrill the State but possibly the nation. Rudy Vallee did this with the Stein Song but this cannot be classed as a strictly Maine song, in the opinion of Daniel W. Hoegg, chairman of the advertising and publicity committee of the Publicity Bureau, because its theme was written about one of its institutions, the University of Maine. Mr. Hoegg says:

"In order to develop this outstanding Maine song, the Publicity Bureau is to stage a great contest to produce one. Possibly the song which will be chosen will be an entirely new composition, one that will be inspired by the competition which is to be held; possibly it may be an old song, one written years ago and long since forgotten. Its theme must be the State of Maine as a whole, not any special section.

"All songs to be submitted in the contest must be addressed to Daniel W. Hoegg, chairman of the advertising and publicity committee, State of Maine Publicity Bureau, Longfellow Square, Portland, Maine.

"They may be submitted by anyone; in other words, the composer does not have to be a resident of Maine. Any existing Maine poem may be set to music and submitted.

"There will be two awards in connection with the contest. The first will be for the song selected by the committee of musicians and prominent citizens of Maine.

"The second will be for the song which receives the greatest popularity vote from its radio reception.

"The final selection will be made by the special committee.

"The Publicity Bureau believes that in conducting this contest it will perform a real service for the State of Maine, that it will stimulate interest in Maine and will, in addition, give the State widespread publicity."

The State of Maine Song Night which will probably be early in October, will mark the conclusion of the "Come to Maine" broadcasts by the Publicity Bureau, in cooperation with Station WCHS, which have been so successfully conducted since July.

The supper and fair which the ladies of the Pleasant Point sewing circle held in Grange hall last Wednesday evening proved a grand success. It was the largest gathering they have ever had and the proceeds were $283.87. The ladies of the circle feel very grateful to all who helped in every way to make it a success and extend thanks. It is hoped they will all feel rewarded for their efforts when they ride over the new piece of road the money is to build.

A rare treat was afforded the residents of Pleasant Point Saturday evening when they were all invited to enjoy a performance of the third act of the play "Sun-Up," by Lula Vallmer, as guests of the summer residents of Stone's Point. The play was given in Mrs. Laura Littlefield's barn which was converted into a little theatre for the performance. It was under the direction of Ernest Law Johnson of Auburndale, Mass., and several of the cast were members of the Auburndale Club Players, a group directed throughout the year by Mr. Johnson. The play depicted life in the mountains of North Carolina, and the rough boards of the barn formed an appropriate background for the scene. The audience sat facing the stage on benches constructed for the occasion. An explanation and summary of the first two acts was read by Janet Esterbrooks before the performance. The cast: Widow Cagle, Helen Brown; the stranger, Charles Wedon; Sheriff Weeks, Herbert Wellington Smith; Emmy, Dorothy Bates; Bud, Forest Esterbrooks.

Following the play the guests were invited to have refreshments in Mr. Smith's studio on the Point. Coffee, doughnuts and cheese were served and the tables were attractively decorated with candles and flowers. Everyone present spent an evening long to be remembered, and feel that they cannot find words in which to express their thanks to those who gave them such a good time.

STRAND THEATRE

"Silence," which a few years ago thrilled Broadway audiences on the stage, has been brought to the screen and will show here Wednesday and Thursday.

The thrilling melodrama which has stood the test of time has been filmed with Olive Brook playing the role which H. B. Warner made famous on the stage. Marjorie Rambeau and Peggy Shannon have the chief feminine parts, and handsome Charles Starrett, who played opposite Miriam Hopkins in "Fast and Loose," carries the juvenile role. "Silence" is the story of a likable and handsome crook whose crimes bring ruin and death to the woman he loves. His daughter, while a baby, is taken from him, and brought up in the home of a kind foster-father. Years later, the crook, still pursuing his lawless career, meets his daughter. When the girl is threatened with disgrace and ruin because of her real father's past, the crook, by a great sacrifice, attempts to shield her. Only the girl's great love and courage save him from death.—adv.
